HENRY CLAY AS AN ACTOR.
How the Great Lawyer Won a Hopeless Case.
An old and well known traveler, who has recently settled in Chicago, while coming in from Pewee valley the other afternoon told an interesting story about Henry Clay, the great Kentucky statesman. The story tells in his youth lived in Mr. Clay's district during the time when Henry Clay was at his prime as a lawyer.
"A man was once being tried for murder," said the narrator, "and his case looked hopeless indeed. He had without any seeming provocation murdered one of his neighbors in cold blood. Not a lawyer in the county would touch the case. It looked bad enough to ruin the reputation of any barrier."
"The man as a last extremity appealed to Mr. Clay to take the case for him. Every one thought that Clay would certainly refuse, but when the celebrated lawyer looked into the matter his fighting blood was roused, and, to the great surprise of all, he accepted."
"Then came a trial the like of which I have never seen. Clay slowly carried on the case, and it looked more and more hopeless. The only ground of defense the prisoner had was that the murdered man had looked at him with such a fierce, murderous look that out of self defense he had struck first.
A ripple passed through the jury at this defense."
"The time came for Clay to make his defense. It was settled in the minds of the spectators that the man was guilty of murder in the first degree.
Clay calmly proceeded, laid all the proof before them in his masterly way, then, just as he was about to conclude, he played his last and master card."
"Gentlemen of the jury," he said,
"assuming the fiercest, blackest look and carrying the most undying hatred in it that I have ever seen, gentlemen, if a man should look at you like this what would you do?"
"That was all he said, but that was enough. The jury was startled, and some even quailed on their seats. The judge moved uneasily on his bench.
After fifteen minutes the jury fled slowly back with a 'Not guilty, your honor.' The victory was complete."
"When Clay was congratulated on his easy victory, he said: "It was not so easy as you think. I spent days and days in my room before the murder, practicing that look.
It took more hard work to give that look than to investigate the most obtuse case."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
An Ancient Bible.
In the Cottonian library in England is an old manuscript copy of a part of the Bible in Latin. The London Chronicle says it was used at the conventions of English sovereigns 300 years before the "Stone of Destiny" was brought from Stone to Westminster by Edward I.
If this be true, the use of this Bible for the purpose dates back to the year 1000. It is a quarto of 217 leaves, containing the four gospels, and seems from the style of the writing and illuminations, which are very beautiful, to have been made about the end of the ninth century.
It narrowly escaped destruction in the fire at Ashburnham House in 1731, of which it bears evidence in its crumpled leaves and singed margins.
There is some evidence that the son of Edward the Elder, Athelstan the Glorious, who was king of the West Saxons from 925 to 940, owned this Bible and gave it to the church of Dover.
Bats and Vampires.
At sunset in the forest of Gulana the bats flit from their hiding places, some taking the place of the parrots and flocking around the fruit trees, while the horrid vampires wander far and near in search of some sleeping animal, or even man, to feed on to obtain a meal. Cows, goats, hogs, fowls as well as game birds and quadrupeds all suffer from their attacks if not secured in well latticed pens, while the traveler must not be surprised when awaking to find blood oozing from a wound in his foot or temple.
In some places domestic animals cannot be kept at all, as they are so weakened by repeated attacks as to ultimately die of exhaustion. Fortunately, however, the vampires are not very common, and with proper care may be excluded from dwelling houses and stock pens.—Longman's Magazine.
Ideas of Happiness.
Two young women, patently of the "saleslady" persuasion, rode down Chestnut street in a crowded trolley car on a recent morning. They chatted animatingly about the merits and demerits of Will and Gus till they reached Broad street. From there to Twelfth they preserved a dreamy silence. Then one broke out with:
"I say, Ag, what would you choose if you could have everything in the world you asked for?"
"Well," said Ag slowly and musingly,
"I think I'd choose enough silk dresses to last me for the next ten years.
What'd you take, Sadie?"
"Me?" replied Sadie. "It's the dream of my life, Ag, to have all the money I'd want, so I could go to me job in a cab every morning."—Philadelphia

HE TOOK THE SHOWER BATH
And It Drove Him From the Yosemite Back to New England.
After a week of little journeys, striking here and there a few miles to absorb the Yosemite valley from a dozen colleges of vantage, we were whipping the Illinoiette one afternoon for mountain trout, says the World's Work.
"Tomorrow," said a voice, "I shall take a shower bath under the seventeen hundred foot fall."
"You," said another voice, "are a fool."
"Not at all," came back argumenta-tively. "The river's very low. What there is of it turns to spray in the first hundred feet; it will simply come down like rain. Why, you'd go under the Bridal Veil yourself. Only that's prosaic. This is something big. Come on."
"Not I."
But I was there to see. The water, as he had said, came down, a considerable part of it, in rain and spray that flew out on the wind incredible distances. But to crawl down, dressed in a bathing suit, closer to the main stream that falls to the pool and upon the rocks with a murderous swish in the air and a roar like a railway train when it strikes was daring to fool-hardiness. At any moment a veering wind might swing the whole mass upon the tall, slim figure backing tentatively on all fours down the jagged talus slope, his eyeglass pebbles glinting cheerfully. A steady breeze kept the fall swung out a little the other way, and the spray burgeoned out far up the other slope. The roar was deafening.
All at once the wind shifted, the water swung back, and in a flash the human figure was blotted out in a deluge that turned me sick. For a second —that seemed an hour—it lay there on the spot fendishly. It seemed to me, standing horrified there, and then slowly it swept away.
And then there was a movement, a painful, crawling movement, down there on the slope, and I scrambled down the slippery rocks to help a blinking, creeping, much surprised youth, bleeding from a hundred cuts, up to where his clothes lay. He was still too dazed to speak. When his breath returned and his extra glasses were perched again on his nose, he said:
"The ocean lies upon me! For God's sake, come back to New England!"
And we went.
NATURAL HISTORY.
Ostriches live to the age of about sixty years.
The mandarin duck is one of the most beautiful of aquatic birds.
So voracious is the cod that it will swallow anything it sees in motion.
An eel has two separate hearts. One beats 60, the other 100, times a minute.
A ladybird can travel 20,000,000,000 times its own length in an hour. In that time a sloth can only travel fifty times its own length.
There is no country in the world in which the raven is not found to be native; it is also the only bird known to ornithologists which is of such cosmopolitan character.
Only one existing reptile can sustain itself in the air. This is the flying dragon of the East Indies. It has no real wings, but can glide from tree to tree like a flying squirrel.
The common house fly usually produces the note F in flying. To do so it must vibrate its wings 335 times a second. The honey bee sounds A, which means that its wing vibrations are 440 to the second.
First Analysis of Aerolites.
In 1796 a stone weighing fifty-six pounds was exhibited in London. It was said to have fallen from the sky in Yorkshire in the previous December, but this statement was received with great incredulity. At that time Sir Joseph Banks was president of the Royal society, and he noticed a strong resemblance between the Yorkshire stone and one sent to him from Siena, in Italy, which was said to have fallen from the sky. Two or three years later he received an account of a fall of stones near Benares, in Hindustan.
A chemical analysis of the stones from all three places proved them to be identical in composition, and incredulity as to their meteoric origin began to give way.—Notes and Queries.
Eccentricities of English.
There is a new maid-in the family, a Swedish girl, who has many things besides language to learn, says an exchange. Her new mistress, who is a young wife with a husband many years her senior, is trying to instruct her. One of the lessons was upon bread, the girl being told that she should speak of bread which had lost its freshness as stale, and not old.
The girl was sure to remember this, for she was quick to learn, and she did.
So the young wife remarked when a few days later the maid remarked to her confidentially:
"It is too bad, isn't it, that your husband is so much more stale than you are?"—Detroit Free Press.
Fetichism.
The policeman heard high words and poked his head in the door.
"What's goin' on here?" he demanded.
"Nawthin'! Nawthin' at all," answered one of the belligerent Irishmen in the middle of the floor. "There's nawthin' goin' on, but there's a fight comin' off in less than a minute if ye'll keep movin'."—Chicago Post.
He Had to Die.
"If you refuse me," cried Moody.
"my blood will be upon your head. I cannot live without you!"
"Well, self preservation is the first law of nature," replied Miss Cooley.
"I simply couldn't live with you."—

YOUNG GRANT'S COLT.
The Story of a Purchase That Earned the Boy Much Tennis.
When Ulysses S. Grant was a small boy living in Georgetown, O., he wanted, like most boys, to own a horse, and one particular colt belonging to a man named Ralston he wished especially to have. To indulge the boy's taste and buy the colt his father offered Mr. Ralston $20, but the owner valued the colt at $25 and refused the offer, taking the animal home with him.
As the hours passed after the little boy had trotted away with his owner Ulysses' disappointment and eagerness for possession increased, and he finally begged his father to pay the $25 demanded. His father said that $20 was all the animal was worth, but since Ulysses desired it so much he might go to Mr. Ralston and offer $20 again.
If, however, he could not buy it for $20, he might offer $22.50, and if the owner would not let it go for $22.50 he might, in order to obtain it, give $25.
Ulysses therefore mounted a horse and set out for Mr. Ralston's. He was at that time probably about eight years old.
When he found the owner, he told him, "Papa says I may offer you $20 for the colt, but if you won't take that to offer you $22.50, and if you won't take that to give you $25." The eagerness of the boy to gain the horse could not brook any barrier. It is needless to say that he paid $25 and led the animal home.
Grant said, in writing his memoirs, that the story of this purchase of his got out in the village and it was long before he heard the last of it. The schoolboys delighted in teasing him about it; schoolboys are very often the barbarians for tormenting one another, and they did not let Ulysses forget this one instance when he was behind the rest in cleverness.
He kept the horse for several years and finally sold it for $20, the poor animal having become blind. Later he found it taken from the road and working the tread wheel of a ferryboat which plied between the Ohio and Kentucky banks of the Ohio river.
THE PERPETUAL LIGHT.
Remarkable Lamp in Louisiana
That Never Goes Out.
"The most remarkable lamp in this section of the country," said a man who cruises a great deal about the coast to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "is to be found in the water area between Lake Borgne and Mississippi sound in a lonely, desolate, isolated spot, where the fall of human feet and the dip of oars are heard only four times a year.
"The light is some distance this side of Bay St. Louis and is a little south of Chinchuba. It stands away out in the marsh, but can be seen from the Louisville and Nashville railroad. It burns all the time, day and night, year in and year out. It flickers away for the benefit of the mariners who frequent these waters. It is the Perpetual light. The sun, the moon and stars may come and go, but the light which shines out in the dismal marsh is always the same. It is the one bright thing in a rather dismal stretch of country. Seaweeds grow wild and rank in that region. The land, such as one may see from a railroad train, is a marsh and treeless waste. It is without any cheerful aspect, low, gloomy, overhung by miasmatic mist and a perfect prairie of wild and matted weeds of the kind which flourish in marshy regions. It is threaded by sluggish arms of water.
"Once every three months this lamp is visited by a human being. It is filled with oil, trimmed up and put in condition to burn for three months longer. Thus it is visited four times a year. It is situated so that the winds cannot, never extinguish it. It renders good service, never explodes, never goes out, never gets dimmer or brighter, but burns with the same steady power all the time. It has earned the name of the Perpetual light."
Washing in the Orient.
The Japanese rip their garments apart for every washing, and they iron their clothes by spreading them on a flat board and leaning this up against the house to dry. The sun takes the wrinkles out of the clothes, and some of them have quite a luster. The Japanese woman does her washing out of doors. Her wash tub is not more than six inches high.
The hardest worked washerwomen in the world are the Koreans. They have to wash about a dozen dresses for their husbands, and they have plenty to do. The washing is usually done in cold water and often in running streams. The clothes are pounded with paddles until they shine like a shirt fresh from a laundry.—Chicago News.
A Heartless Interruption.
A young Parisian, noted for his grace and readiness as a second in many duels, was asked by a friend to accompany him to the mayor's office to affix his signature as a witness to the matrimonial registry. He consented, but when the scene was reached forgot himself. Just as the mayor was ready for the last formalities he broke out: "Gentlemen, cannot this affair be arranged? Is there no way of preventing this sad occurrence?" How True!
"Say, Jinks, where is that fine gold watch you used to sport? I see now that you're wearing a plain affair in a nickel plated case."
"Well, you know, 'circumstances alter cases.'"—Baltimore American.

GULF STREAM MARKS.

The Course of the Flow Through the Ocean Plainly Indicated.

The color of the stream is perceptibly deeper blue than that of the neighboring sea, this blueness forming one of the standard references of the nautical novelists. The depth of color is due to the high percentage of salt contained as compared with the cold green water of higher latitudes, observation having shown that the more salt held in solution by sea water the more intensely blue is its color. Thus even in extratropical latitudes we sometimes observe a rise of ten degrees and even more, as for instance, in the Mediterranean and in other nearly landlocked basins, where the influx of fresher water, being more or less impeded, the percentage of salt contained is raised by evaporation above the average, says the National Geographic Magazine.

Another important fact in connection with the stream is its almost tropical temperature, due to the fact that its high velocity enables it to reach the middle latitudes with very little loss of heat. Upon entering its limits the temperature of the sea water frequently shows a rise of ten degrees and even fifteen degrees. It was this fact that gave to the stream in the later years of the eighteenth century and the earlier years of the nineteenth an importance in the minds of navigators that it no longer possesses. In those days the chronometer, invented by Harrison in 1765, was still an experiment. Instruments were crude and nautical tables often at fault.

The result was that the determination of the longitude was largely a matter of guesswork, a vessel after leaving from the channel to America often being out of her reckoning by degrees instead of by minutes. The idea, first suggested by Benjamin Franklin, that the master of a vessel, by observing the temperature of the surface water, could tell the moment of his entry into the gulf stream and could hence fix his position to within a few miles was hailed with delight.

The method was published in 1790 by Jonathan Williams in a work lengthily entitled "Thermometrical Navigation: Being a series of experiments and observations tending to prove that by ascertaining the relative heat of the sea water from time to time the passage of a ship through the gulf stream and from deep water into soundings may be discovered in time to avoid danger." In this work he makes a patriotic comparison of the gulf stream to a streak of red, white and blue, painted upon the surface of the sea for the guidance of American navigators.

Good Manager.

"You seem to manage remarkably well on your housekeeping money."
"Yes. The tradespeople haven't sent their bills in yet."—New York Herald.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Littledoses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it. In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

Don't Be a Second Class Man.

You can hardly imagine a boy saying: "I am going to be a second class man. I don't want to be first class and get the good jobs, the high pay. Second class jobs are good enough for me." Such a boy would be regarded as lacking in good sense if not in sanity. You can get to be a second class man, however, by not trying to be a first class one. Thousands do that all the time, so that second class men are a drug on the market, remarks Success.

Second class things are only wanted when first class can't be had. You wear first class clothes if you can pay for them, eat first class butter, if you don't, you wish you could. Second class men are no more wanted than any other second class commodity. They are taken and used when the better article is scarce or is too high priced for the occasion. For work that really amounts to anything first class men are wanted.

The Home of England's Wealth.

The Bank of England generally contains sufficient gold in sixteen pound bars to make 20,000,000 sovereigns. The bank, which stands in three palaces, covers three acres of ground, and, as the current price of land in the vicinity works out at £1,000,000 an acre, it is easy to form an idea of the money value of England's wealth. The rateable value is about £1,000 a week. The bank employs about 1,000 people, pays a quarter of a million a year in wages and £35,000 a year in pensions. There are £25,000,000 worth of notes in circulation which have been handed over the bank's counter.—London Globe.

Starting the Conversation.

"I don't know what the trouble is," said the hostess in a tone of great annoyance. "My guests seem very distant and unsocial. I wish I could think of some way to start them talking to one another."

"That's very easily done," answered Miss Catherine. "Is there a musician present?"

"Get him to play or sing something."—Washington Star.

The Lapse of Time.

When two married men who haven't seen each other for some time meet, one of them always says before they separate, "Let's see—how old is your oldest now?" And then, after he gets the answer, he adds, "It is astonishing, isn't it? How time does fly?"—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

THE COOKBOOK

If the pastry be slow in browning, throw a little sugar on the oven shelf. This will expedite matters greatly.

If the skin of a beet root has got broken, sear the part with a redhot iron before cooking it. This will prevent the beet from bleeding.

The next time tomato soup is planned for the family dinner try adding a few slices of orange just before serving and enjoy the pleasant flavor which they impart.

Esplanade is most palatable when broiled. Cut into thick slices, with the skin on, dip in oil or seasoned with salt and pepper and cook on wire broiler over a clear fire five or ten minutes.

When a cake contains too much flour or has baked too fast, it will sink from the edges or rise up sharply, with a crack in the middle. If cake has a coarse grain, it was not beaten enough or the oven was too slow.

If you like cocoanut pyramids, beat the whites of two eggs till light and stiff; mix with two cupfuls of grated cocoanut, one cupful of powdered sugar and two tablespoonfuls of flour; make into pyramids and bake brown.

A Soft Answer.

"Keep yer temper, laddie. Never quarrel wi' an angry person, especially a woman. Mind ye, a soft answer's aye best. It's commanded, and, forbye, it makes them far madder than anything else ye could say."—London Tit-Bits.

London is considered a crowded city, yet 9.4 per cent of its inhabitants occupy one room tenements, whereas in Bombay it is 30 per cent.

There was a cry in the streets. People rushed from their doors and strained their eyes on the struggling balloonist fighting for life. Even the poor, panting sufferer in the sick room, who had been forgotten while the family gazed breathless at this strange tragedy of the air. Then they went back to the sick room to tell of the terrible struggle for life they had just witnessed. It did not occur to them that under their very eyes a more terrible, more pathetic struggle was going on daily.

There can be nothing more pitiful than the struggle the consumptive makes against disease. The greatest help in this struggle is gained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures obstinate coughs, weak and bleeding lungs, emaciation, and other ailments which if neglected or unskillfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

In 1868 one of my daughters was suffering on account of a severe cough, hectic fever, wasting of flesh and other symptoms of diseased lungs. I writes Rev. Joseph H. Pessierman, of Barium Springs, Fredrick Co., N. C. "I promptly gave her Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with gratifying success, and she now enjoys excellent health. This being true, I hereby heartily endorse your medicines."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery."

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1902

For Governor.

GEORGE C. PARDEE, of Oakland Congress, J. N. GILLETTE, Humboldt

FOR SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

George F. Mack, the republican nominee for school superintendent, is too well known to the voters of Amador county to need any eulogy at our hands. For a number of years he has been at the head of the educational interests of Amador county, and conducted the office satisfactorily to all. At that time, with a salary of $600 per year, he was not required to devote his entire time to the duties of the office, but taught school in lone also. Even with the limited time at his disposal, his administration of school affairs met general approval. Under the system which has been in vogue since his retirement, the superintendent devotes his entire time to his office, and receives $1200 per year. George F. Mack is eminently fitted for school superintendent not only by education and a thorough knowledge of the school system, acquired by a life time devoted to teaching, but also by his genial and pleasing manner. He has a large family dependent upon him, and has not the means to make a thorough canvass of the county. He is at present teaching in the valley. For this reason, as well as the financial strain, he will be unable to be present with the other candidates at the various meetings, except during Friday and Saturday evenings. We make this explanation, so that his absence from any county meeting may not be interpreted as a lack of interest on his part in the outcome. He has accepted the nomination in good faith, and wants to be elected. He will do all he can, with the time at his disposal, to win. No man in Amador county is better qualified for taking charge of the school interests of the county, and we believe no man could be found who would make a more acceptable superintendent to those having business with this office than he. There is no office in the county government that requires such a combination of qualities to fill successfully, as that of school superintendent. He is called upon to deal with children as well as with their public instructors. It is with pleasure that we commend Geo. Mack to the voters of Amador county for the office of school superintendent. He is not an untied quantity. He has been there before. We believe the interests of the county will be subserved by placing him at the head of the school department again.

GRILLO FOR SUPERVISOR.

August Grillo, the republican candidate for supervisor in township three, is making a straightforward, clean, determined fight to win out. He is showing by his campaign methods, the thoroughness of his character. When he goes into any undertaking, he leaves nothing undone to accomplish his object. That is just the kind of man we want on the board of supervisors. Grillo is a young man of thirty years, and a native of Amador county. He is engaged in the butcher business in Volcano, and has made a reputation as a successful business man. The same qualities that have made him successful in the management of his own private affairs, are also requisite for an official on the managing board of the county. Every republican we hope will stand loyally by Grillo for supervisor. In his home precinct he will poll a heavy vote, showing the confidence the people generally have where he is best known in his business ability and fitness for the office sought. We urge upon every republican of the eastern section the duty of working and voting for Grillo.

Tot Causes Night Alarm.

"One night my brother's baby was taken with Croup," writes Mrs. J. C. Snider of Crittenden, Ky. "It seemed it would strangle before we could get a doctor, so we gave Dr. King's New Discovery, which gave quick relief and permanently cured it. We always keep it in the house to protect our children from Croup and Whooping Cough. It cured my son's chronic bronchial trouble and all other remedies would not relieve. Infalible for Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung troubles. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at D. B. Spagnoli's drug store."

Report of County Health Officer.

The county health officer, Dr. A. M. Gall, reports that he discovered some mild cases of smallpox in Charity school district, near Jackson; that he closed the school for two days and thoroughly fumigated the building. Also vaccinated all the school children. All the cases are under quarantine, and the disease will be stamped out in a very short time. There were three of these cases under quarantine October 1; also seven cases of scarlet fever in Sutter Creek.

can be swayed from the path which they believe to be right in the election of county officers by money considerations. Any candidate who imagines he can secure support in this manner, is unfit for any position of public trust. We ask republicans to be on their guard in this matter. Candidates who have reaped the spoils of office for years are the best equipped for making a fight of this character. They are prone to imagine they can offset the deep-seated hostility of the voters to their official methods by the liberal use of money accumulated from a high grade salary schedule. For the reputation of Amador county it behooves all self-respecting citizens to see to it that their hopes in this direction are doomed to disappointment. It is related that a candidate in a near-by county spent $10,000 in the effort to secure a nomination under the Crawford plan. He was beaten. Any man who has such a low estimate of American citizens as to imagine that he can buy himself into office ought to be defeated.

NOT SO.

A report has been circulated that Hon. W. C. Ralston, the republican candidate for state senator, is opposed to the employment of Italian and Austrian miners in the Melones mine, of which he is superintendent. A representative of the Ledger, with a view of getting to the bottom of the matter, asked Mr. Ralston during his visit to Jackson this week, if there was any foundation for this report. He replied that there was absolutely no truth in it. That he had not by word or deed conveyed any such idea. He told us further that Italians and Austrians have been employed by him at the Melones ever since work was started six years ago, and are still employed. Some of them have been in the steady employ of the company for years. These facts are a complete refutation of the story referred to. Republicans will pay no heed to these rumors. Mr. Ralston has the confidence and respect of all his employees. He pays the highest rate of wages, and finds that as a business proposition it pays to do so. He is the right man to send to the state senate, from a business point of view, as well as from a political standpoint. Vote for Ralston. Let no silly canards draw you from casting your ballot for him, and for the return of Geo. C. Perkins as United States senator.

"Vote for a mining man from a mining county." This is the heading of a placard that Thos. S. Ford, the democratic nominee for congress, has caused to be posted up in this district. The placard also shows pictures of the placer mining and quartz mining industries. What intelligent miners can be caught by such claptrap. Voters will prefer to stand by the true friend of the miner, and all the interests of the district—J. N. Gillette—who is in line with the party of progress, protection and prosperity.

One or two of the democratic candidates with insatiable appetite for office, appear to be greatly worried about the course of the Ledger in the closing week of the canvass. Visions of a "roast" in the final issue before election seem to flit before their overwrought imaginations. Why these forebodings? If they have served the people the best they knew how, why do their knees knock together, as it were, at the thought of newspaper criticism? These phantoms that cause them so much disquietude are not the creations of an approving conscience. It is guilt, not innocence, that is startled at one's own shadow. To put these tortured spirits on easy street, if that were possible, is the duty of the course of the Ledger is dictated absolutely by its editor. Unlike the underhanded tactics resorted to years ago, when U. S. Gregory was first elected sheriff, and when a tissue of lies was published in the Dispatch concerning sheriff Adams, on the eve of the election, without any chance for refutation, the Ledger will follow the policy it has always adopted under its present management; namely, to prefer no new charge against any candidate in the issue preceding the election, unless the facts constituting the basis of the complaint occur at a period which preclude a ventilation thereof at an earlier date. So the hearts of the terrified need not tremble lest, in accordance with their own pernicious example, they are jumped upon without any opportunity of reply.

DEFENDER, Oct. 15.—The town stamp mill on the Defender mine started up this morning, and is working like a charm, to use the words of superintendent F. B. Joyce. A candidate's ball was given at the Defender mine last night. For some time it was held by all who attended. At the Horn mine they are working two shifts, pushing north for a large ore chute that is known to exist further to the north. T. W. Smith of West Point, spent Tuesday in Defender. It is rumored here that the McKelvey mine is to be worked by Oakland capitalists. John McKelvey, the owner, was up here the fore part of the week. James Trackwell and Len Harmon are working on their claim, after suspension of operations for six months. "YOURS."

Petition for Purchase of Sprinkling Plant. The following is the petition in full presented to the board of supervisors at the last meeting of that body, requesting that the sprinkling plant on the lone road be purchased by the county, which petition was passed upon favorably by the board:

To the honorable board of supervisors of the county of Amador. We, the undersigned, respectfully petition your honorable board that we have claims of unpaid bills against the committee of your county known as the sprinkling committee, for material furnished and labor done in connection with the sprinkling of the public roads of Amador county during the year 1901, and that the claims are as follows:

Dunham, Carrigan & Hayden, for pipe $416 87
Knight & Co., supplies, etc., 50 00
Amador Lumber Co., lumber, 50 00
G. B. Vicini, sprinkling, 110 00

Total $626 87

We further represent to your honorable board that the said committee raised a large amount of money by public subscriptions during the year 1901 for the purpose of installing on the public roads of Amador county the sprinkling plant, consisting of pipe lines and tanks, for the purpose of sprinkling the public roads of said county; that the indebtedness incurred by said committee for said purpose approximated the sum of $5000, and said committee has liquidated all of said indebtedness except the sum of $626.87, which said sum said committee has been unable to raise by private subscription.

That said sprinkling plant, consisting of pipe lines and tanks, is still in place on the public roads of this county, and is of the value of nearly $2500, and can be used by the public and your honorable board for many years to come.

That the undersigned creditors could easily realize the amount due them in an action at law by sale under execution of said sprinkling plant, but in the judgment and opinion of your committee such would be an unwise proceeding, because said sprinkling plant in place is worth much more than if removed and used for another purpose; that in the judgment and opinion of the undersigned the only way they can collect their claims is either by a forced sale under an action at law, or by your honorable board purchasing from said sprinkling committee for the use and benefit of said county said sprinkling plant for the sum of $626.87.

That in the judgment and opinion of the undersigned creditors, it will be for the best public interests and your honorable body to purchase said plant for the said sum of $626.87, thus becoming the owners of the same, and use said plant for the purpose for which it was intended.

By W. J. McGEE, atty. for petitioners.

We have since been informed that the debts against the plant, to the amount of money the county will have to pay for it, will not much exceed $500. We do not believe it will develop into a bargain at this price. Nor do we view it as favoring any effort to draw the county into the purchasing business on the eve of a general election.

We further represent to your honorable board that the said committee raised a large amount of money by public subscriptions during the year 1901 for the purpose of installing on the public roads of Amador county the sprinkling plant, consisting of pipe lines and tanks, for the purpose of sprinkling the public roads of said county; that the indebtedness incurred by said committee for said purpose approximated the sum of $5000, and said committee has liquidated all of said indebtedness except the sum of $626.87, which said sum said committee has been unable to raise by private subscription.

That said sprinkling plant, consisting of pipe lines and tanks, is still in place on the public roads of this county, and is of the value of nearly $2500, and can be used by the public and your honorable board for many years to come.

That the undersigned creditors could easily realize the amount due them in an action at law by sale under execution of said sprinkling plant, but in the judgment and opinion of your committee such would be an unwise proceeding, because said sprinkling plant in place is worth much more than if removed and used for another purpose; that in the judgment and opinion of the undersigned the only way they can collect their claims is either by a forced sale under an action at law, or by your honorable board purchasing from said sprinkling committee for the use and benefit of said county said sprinkling plant for the sum of $626.87.

That in the judgment and opinion of the undersigned creditors, it will be for the best public interests and your honorable body to purchase said plant for the said sum of $626.87, thus becoming the owners of the same, and use said plant for the purpose for which it was intended.

By W. J. McGEE, atty. for petitioners.

We have since been informed that the debts against the plant, to the amount of money the county will have to pay for it, will not much exceed $500. We do not believe it will develop into a bargain at this price. Nor do we view it as favoring any effort to draw the county into the purchasing business on the eve of a general election.

Chris Marella has injected himself into the political arena. He wants to be justice of the peace in township one. He thinks he can make it as an independent candidate, and filed his petition to get on the official ballot early this week with 36 signatures. What his move is intended to accomplish is beyond our ken. It is generally admitted that J. J. Wright is fully acceptable as the republican nominee, and the voters are not to be drawn from his support by side-shows.

The democratic local campaign was opened in Sutter Creek last Saturday evening. This meeting was not on the program. They had already held a whoop-up in that town only a week before, when they tried to enthrone over the advent of T. S. Ford, but it wasn't much of a success. On the other hand, the republicans a few days thereafter held a meeting, and organized a club of over 100 strong. Perhaps this second rally of the "terrified" was called out as a sort of offset to the other gathering. A. Caminetti and the county candidates were in for force.

A case of smallpox crops up occasionally. The latest case is that of Henry Schacht. He went down to the Stockton fair. The disease has been prevalent in that town for some time, and the authorities do not appear to be doing much to stamp it out. It is supposed that young Schacht contracted the disease while in that city. At any rate a day or two after his return home last week the well known eruptions appeared. The residence at the north end of town was quarantined. It is a very mild case. The patient is being treated by his father, and is recovering rapidly. No danger is apprehended of the contagion spreading, as every precaution is being taken to guard against such a contingency.

A novel surprise party was tendered to Miss Bertie Kay on Thursday evening. Some thirty of her friends gathered on the street, each having a white sheet for an outer garment. Thus arrayed they went up to the Kay residence in a body about eleven o'clock. To say that the young lady was surprised is to put it very mildly. On realizing the mission of the callers, they were cordially greeted and a jolly time was had.

Frederick Ludwig died at the residence of his brother, A. Ludwig, at the Gwin mine on Friday, Oct. 10, after a lingering illness of consumption. He came up from San Francisco a few weeks preceding his death to visit his brother, mainly for the benefit of his health. He was 24 years of age and a native of New Jersey. The body was brought to Jackson on Sunday for burial, the remains being deposited in the public cemetery.

The Gardnerville Courier says the Silver Lake House on the Amador road was burned on Friday, October 3. The people who conducted the place during the summer had moved out that morning, and some campers went into the house and built a large fire in the fireplace. At 9 o'clock they discovered the roof on fire. The house belonged to the El Dorado Ditch Co. Mr. Gould, the manager, says he did not know the building was burned until last Friday. There was no insurance.

Mrs. Retagliatta gave a social dance in Amador City on Saturday evening. It was well attended by residents of the town and neighborhood. But after midnight the Jackson boys who had been over to the Plymouth republican jubilee fell upon the scene. They were twenty in number, and all dusty and travel-worn. But no excuse would be for not participating. So Chez Ardito had the musicians call a waltz, and every last one of them was on the floor with a partner and spent a pleasant hour. Some of the boys came straggling home long after sun up.

In the Zella mine Thursday evening a dispute arose between two miners named A. Versalovich and Tripo Pavlovich. It was a case of shift, and a lot of men were waiting to get on the shift to be hoisted to the surface. Words ensued on account of Versalovich jumping on the skin out of his time, so it was claimed. The dispute waxed warm, whereupon Pavlovich in self defense, so it is claimed, stabbed Versalovich with a miner's candlestick, the point entering below the groin. The wound is not considered dangerous. Dr. Phillips is treating the case. Pavlovich is in jail.

S. A. Jones, the former editor of the Jackson Herald, after being kept in danceville for eleven days on a charge of beating a board bill, departed from Jackson Saturday morning. He gave Mrs. Smith a note for the amount due her from board and lodging on the evening before he left. This was not in compliance with any agreement for his discharge. He was discharged because there was no case against him. There was evidence of his guilt. His ways were anything but commendable while here. But we must denounce a resort to the criminal courts to collect an ordinary debt. In other words, we protest against making the taxpayers bear the burden of the expenses of trying to collect a bad debt. Jones had to have his fare home paid by donations.

Taken Suddenly Ill.

Miss Millie Peek was taken dangerously ill on Tuesday last with hernia. Drs. Endicott and Gall were called, as the case was urgent. They did their utmost to relieve the patient by external remedies, but without avail. It was then evident that a critical surgical operation held out the only hope of relief, and that it would have to be done speedily, and further recommended that the patient be taken to Stockton for that purpose, that being the nearest city where the necessary appliances and conveniences for such an undertaking were to be had. Thursday afternoon she was conveyed to Ione, to take the afternoon train for that city. Her sister, Mrs. Alton Jones, and her brother, Tom, accompanied her, and will remain in the city until the critical period is passed.

[W. P. Peek received a dispatch early this morning from Stockton, stating that the operation had been successfully performed, and that the patient was resting easily.]

A Denial.

To the voters of township No. one: I desire to take this opportunity of denying a report which has been assiduously circulated in some quarters to my detriment, to the effect that I have withdrawn as republican candidate for justice of the peace of township No. one. I hereby notify the people of this township that I not only have not withdrawn from this fight, but that I am in it to win, and shall do all in my power to insure my success at the polls on the fourth of November. I request my friends, republican and democratic alike, to deny this false report, and so serve not only my own interests, but those of fairness and justice as well. Added opposition to my candidacy will only serve to increase my determination to win, and will not, I believe, affect my interests in this campaign. JAS. J. WRIGHT.

A Pretty Wedding.

Early Wednesday morning October 15, Frederick Eudey, cashier of the Amador County Bank, and Miss Henrietta Ginocchio were united in wedlock at the home of the bride's parents in Jackson. The wedding was the outcome of an attachment between the contracting parties that has existed for years. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. Gleason in the parlor of the handsome Ginocchio residence, the apartments of which were beautifully decorated for the occasion. One parlor was artistically adorned in white and green, another embellished in pink and green, while the dining room was decked in canary and green. The bride, always captivating and beautiful, looked especially charming, attired in white embroidered crepe de chene over white tulle. The groom plainly proud of his prize in the lottery of life, was attired in the conventional black. Miss Lillian Castle, as bridesmaid, arrayed in pink, added a pretty effect to the home of green and white arranged as a loving tribute, which formed the background for the bridal party. Alex Eudey as best man, appeared very brave, considering that gossip has singled him out to become a benedict ere long. At the conclusion of the ceremony the party and invited guests sat down to the wedding breakfast which was spread in the spacious dining room. After partaking of which the happy couple started on their wedding tour, and a shower of old shoes and rice. The wedding gifts were many and elegant. Accompanied by the best wishes of relatives and friends the pair have launched upon matrimonial life under the most auspicious and happy surroundings. The bride's party included San Francisco and many points of interest in the state. The guests invited to witness the nuptials were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Ginocchio, Mrs. Elizabeth Eudey, Mr. and Mrs. Ginocchio, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Podesta, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burgin, Miss Julia Ginocchio, Mr. Alphonso Ginocchio, Mrs. Maria Guisto, Sacramento, Misses Ida and Oda Ginocchio, Messrs. Alex. J. and Bertha Eudey, Mr. and Mrs. A. Piccardo, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Podesta, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Piccardo, Mr. Pete Piccardo, Misses Emma, Eda, and Amelia Piccardo, Mr. and Mrs. E. Marre, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Marre, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Spagnoli, Mr. and Mrs. J. Guisto, Sacramento, Mr. and Mrs. G. Girolami, Sacramento, Mr. and Mrs. A. Caminetti, Mr. A. Vansano, San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. T. Casio, Stockton, Dr. and Mrs. A. Republican Club at Plymouth.

A rousing time was had in Plymouth on Saturday last, the occasion being the organization of a republican club in that town. The citizens took quite an interest in the matter, and had the hall tastefully decorated. Four wagon loads from Jackson were over to participate in a number from Dryden. The hall was densely packed. It was in fact one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held in the town. Addresses were made by F. L. Stewart and made a speech, sang a song, and drew attention, and the remarks were cheered to the echo. The Oneida Glee quartet and Jackson string orchestra, with the Plymouth band, enlivened the proceedings. Fred LeMon was there and made a speech, sang a song, and made a bit with the audience. At the close of the meeting, a club was organized with 50 members, which is more than one-fifth of the voting strength of the two town precincts. The republicans are standing together for the ticket this time, and expect to render material aid for the cause of local reform in Amador county by cleaning out the ruling clique that has held sway so long to the detriment of public interests.

Appointed Gauger.

Chas. H. Adams, for a number of years a school teacher in this county, and who was born and raised in Volcano, has received the appointment of gauger in the internal revenue service for the first district of California. This district embraces San Francisco and the dense population around the bay. At the time of his notification of the glad news, Adams was teaching school in Arizona, at a point some 40 miles from the town of Clifton. As soon as he could make arrangements he left for San Francisco, and entered upon the duties of his office last Friday. He will be remembered that some years ago he passed the civil service examination, and was entered upon the civil service list for employment. The position of gauger in San Francisco is a fairly lucrative one. There is no regular salary attached to the office. His pay is $5 per day and expenses while engaged in gauging. With full employment, which is the case in San Francisco, it is considered a good thing, particularly when it is a steady job, and not subject to the vicissitudes of politics. The duties of gauger consists in gauging the quality of brandy and other distilled spirits made in the district, for the purpose of determining the amount of revenue tax to be paid thereon.

GEO. C. PARDEE IN JACKSON

The Biggest Rally of the Campaign.

A Memorable Gathering—Republican Candidate Received With Unbounded Enthusiasm.

The great meeting of the campaign on the republican side—and indeed one of the most notable political gatherings ever seen in Amador county—was witnessed in Jackson last Tuesday evening, when Geo. C. Pardee, the republican nominee for governor, reached Amador county on his campaign tour. The governor's party made the trip from Angels the same day, passing through San Andreas and Mokelumne Hill on the way and holding a short meeting at each place. On the line of march and at each stopping place they were received with a welcome that showed the people are fully alive to the issue, and have lost none of their confidence in the leadership of the party of progress and prosperity. A reception committee, consisting of C. A. Herrick, Dr. Gall, B. F. Taylor, and P. B. Aiken left town in a gayly decorated buggy and met the distinguished party at Mokelumne Hill, and accompanied them to Jackson. The governor's party consisted of George C. Pardee, Mrs. Pardee, Duncan E. McKinley, the orator, W. C. Ralston, candidate for state senator, and Marshal Shine of San Francisco. They arrived in Jackson shortly after six o'clock, and alighted at the National hotel, where many prominent men from all parts of the county were already assembled to give them a kindly greeting, and where a committee of ladies were also in waiting to receive Mrs. Pardee. Long before sundown a stream of vehicles from every part of the county rolled into town. The Plymouth band came to add life to the occasion. As the time for the procession drew nigh either side of Main street was lined with people. The torchlight procession was slow in forming, owing to the arrival of the visitors at a late hour, and the time consumed in making arrangements. Three hundred torches had been procured, and a gross of tin horns. They were all grabbed by those anxious to participate, a number of small boys also getting into line. The transparencies were not numerous, among them "Vote for Pardee," "Vote for Ralston," and "Progress and Prosperity" were noticeable. The procession formed at the north bridge, and got fairly started about eight o'clock, marching to Marre's hotel and back to the hall. With the Jackson and Plymouth bands and speakers and officers in carriages the procession filled the space from Marre's to the Main bridge. It was intended that the doors of Love's hall should not be opened until those in line halted, and that they should be the first to march in. But just as soon as the doors were thrown open a mass of people crowded in, and before one-third of the marchers got to the door the hall was crammed to its utmost capacity. No more than 600 persons could get inside. It was estimated that the crowd anxious to see and hear Pardee numbered fully 1500; over one-half were disappointed. The hall was very tastefully decorated with ferns and bunting, with a picture of Pardee and Anderson showing above the stage. A novel feature was a number of brooms stood up in front of the stage, each broom bearing in its bristles a large placard of one of the local candidates. The inference being that a clean sweep of county officers was in order.

C. A. Herrick called the meeting to order, as chairman of the county committee, and introduced Judge J. P. Davis as presiding officer. On the platform were assembled, in addition to the speakers of the evening, Dr. A. M. Gall, E. C. Voorheis, J. R. Tregloan, B. F. Taylor, and a list of twenty or more others who were named as vice presidents. Judge Davis was proud of such a meeting; he felt proud of Amador county, and the republicans thereof, especially of the republican clubs of Jackson, Sutter Creek, Plymouth and Ione, to whose efforts the grand outpouring was due. He told them that San Francisco was not going to turn down the party which had brought prosperity to its doors, but would roll up a majority for Pardee. He felt proud to see such a welcome of Pardee. The standard bearer realized that he was at home with the people of Jackson. W. C. Ralston, candidate for state senator, was introduced, and spoke briefly but to the point. He said he entered the race for senator with considerable trepidation, as the successor of Senators Davis and Voorheis, both of whom had so ably represented this district. He felt that one of the most important matters before the coming legislature was the election of a United States senator. It became of national import to see that Senator Perkins was re-elected, and to secure that result republicans must see to it that republicans are sent to Sacramento. If elected he would do everything he could to further the interests of the mining counties and of the state at large.

Alex Brown, chairman of the state board of equalization, and candidate on the republican ticket for re-election to that body, was next introduced. He said his experience of four years on the state board had shown him that it was necessary for the mining interests to be represented on that board. Since he had been on the board the assessment of the state on property outside of that assessed by the state board had increased 12 per cent, while property assessed by the state board of equalization had increased 40 per cent. In Amador county the railroad property, four years ago, was assessed at $64,000; to-day it was assessed for $120,000. In Calaveras and other counties, about the same ratio of increase was maintained. He found the railroad people fair-minded, upright men, who were not averse to an increase when the necessity therefor was properly presented to them.

A campaign song by the Oneida Glee Club captured the audience.

The chairman then introduced the candidate for governor, Geo. C. Pardee. The audience went wild when he rose to speak. For several minutes the cheering and shouting continued. He said his heart was warmed indeed at the welcome he had received. There was no place he loved so well as the mountains, with their noble men and women. Among the mountains were to be found the true Californians of the pioneer days. He did not claim to be more than other men, but he did hope that the people, upon hearing and seeing him, might realize that he had in him the possibility at least of making a respectable governor of California. He believed that California in this election would not turn its back upon the party of the dead McKinley and the living Roosevelt. He happened to be mayor of Oakland during the times of democratic ascendancy in national affairs, when hundreds in every locality in the state were looking for work they could find. In Oakland they had in that period of distress 600 persons under public expense. He was in favor of doing everything that could be done to help the common people, because the condition of the working people was the gauge of the condition of the country generally. The only issue in the campaign was the continued prosperity of California; that they were prosperous now there was no gaining. There was one hundred and fifty million dollars more in the banks to-day than there was five years ago. He was in San Diego a short time back, and they wanted a speaker's stand built, and a physician and a lawyer had to build it because there was not to be found a mechanic out of a job in the town. And so he had found it all over. The democrats would change all this as they have done every time they gained control of the nation, and introduced their tariff-for-revenue-only policy. He had made only two suggestions. One was to stand by the platform and policy of his party; and the other was that if elected governor, he would give them as good an administration as he could. He would be governor, and no man, or set of men could say to him, you do this, or you do that. He would represent the entire state. His opponent was a good man, but he stood on a platform that he would not discuss. The candidate spoke for half an hour, and was listened to attentively, and liberally cheered.

Duncan E. McKinlay was then introduced as the orator of the evening. He is one of the ablest speakers on the stump in this state and kept his audience spell bound by his eloquence and sound logic for over an hour. He took up the issues of the campaign from a national standpoint; showed that the democratic party was without a policy; that its platform was full of "we congregate," "we oppose," "we fear." They could point with pride to nothing that had been accomplished during the past few years under republican control, when the nation had advanced to the highest point of prosperity it had ever attained.

The meeting dispersed after 11 o'clock, and a social dance was given by the band as a windup.

Passing of Another Pioneer.

Agostino Chichizola died at his home at Jackson Gate on Monday afternoon, October 13. The end was not unexpected. He had been a sick man for many months. Early in the year he went to San Francisco for medical treatment, as his affliction assumed a threatening character at that time, but with the best of care he rallied sufficiently to be able to get around again, and was brought to his home at the Gate as soon as the trip could be safely undertaken. For the last few months, in spite of all that could be done for him, it was evident that he was slowly approaching the end of life's long journey. Deceased was a native of Italy, 71 years of age. The funeral took place last Wednesday, the services being held in the Catholic church, and conducted by Rev. J. J. Gleason. The remains were deposited in the family plot in the Catholic cemetery, and followed to the grave by a very large procession of mourners.

In the death of A. Chichizola another landmark has been removed from the busy haunts of life. Deceased was one of the pioneers. He came to the county in the early fifties, and at first engaged in mining. He afterwards engaged in merchandising at Jackson Gate, and thereafter established a branch store at Amador City. He was one of the most successful merchants of the county. A shrewd business man and investor, he amassed a large fortune, and for many years has been one of the financial pillars of the county. Some years ago the property interests were incorporated as the Chichizola Estate Company, the shares being divided between himself and the members of his family. He leaves three sons, Thomas A., Julius, and Victor J. Chichizola, who for several years since the death of the firm became too sick to give his personal attention to business, have conducted the affairs with the same skill and success as have marked the business in the past. Deceased also leaves one daughter, Mrs. H. Marre, of Jackson.

McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." Burglary.

The saloon of Tony Fontenrose was burglarized during Wednesday night of last week. The nickel-in-the-slot machine was robbed, also the money in the till and a revolver taken. The following day constable Millard of Perkins arrested Martin and Pete Kessler when they reached Perkins on the Plymouth stage. The arrest was made on request of sheriff Gregory, who suspected the Kesslers of having committed the burglary.

The Record Union says that D. S. Gray, constable of Sutter Creek, was on the stage when Millard arrested the Kessler boys. Mr. Gray happened to know that Pete Kessler slept in a Sutter Creek livery stable Wednesday night, and that Martin left the Whittle ranch near Forest Home yesterday morning. When sheriff Gregory was apprised of the facts he ordered the Kesslers released.

New Fall Suits for Men

There is a wide difference between the Redlick clothing and the clothing sold by small dealers. Word was sent to the biggest clothing makers of America that Redlick's were in the field with big orders to place. You may be sure they hunted for us. When they learned what we were able to do for them they were anxious to please us. We are thoroughly satisfied with our efforts. We know we can out value any other store. We know we can beat their prices a good many dollars, so we invite you to inspect these offers, with the fullest confidence that goods bought direct from first hands and not auction goods, we can please you and save you money.
